ELECTION NOV. 3, 1896.

For Congress,
HON. JNO. W. LEWIS.

The United Confederate Reunion will be held at Richmond, Va., on the 30th of this month and continue for three days.

Reports come from different parts of the county that the corn and wheat crops are very much damaged by the continued wet weather.

G. P. Thomas will be the next Congressman from the 1st District; E. T. Franks from the 2d and W. G. Hunter from the 3d—[Hopkinsville Banner.]

And Jno. W. Lewis from the 4th.

The thought of the Hon. Henry Watterson enjoying the society of the French Capital, surely fills with envy the breasts of a host of sound money men who call themselves Democrats.

Hon. John W. Lewis has endeavored himself to the people of his District irrespective of party affiliations. Many are anxious to express their esteem for him by returning him to the halls of Congress.

SENATOR Blackburn in speaking at Lexington said to the sound money men: "You tried this thing for twenty years and made a failure." Certainly they have made a failure, and Hon. J. C. S. Blackburn is a stupendous failure along with the rest of them.

As Mr. Gustavus Brown, of Breckinridge county, was made elector for the Fourth Congressional District by the Democratic-Populist Convention at Lexington, Hon. J. S. R. Wedding now knows whom he has to meet on the raging stump. What Mr. Wedding will do for Gustavus will be a plenty.

A most noticeable feature of the Democratic party is its tendency to advocate principals that are harmful to the public weal. Witness the disastrous result of Democratic tariff laws; the Democratic idea of the free and unlimited coinage of silver is a dangerous idea, and would plunge the country into untold suffering if carried into effect.

What boots it whether there be free silver or no silver at all, when the laboring man can obtain no employment by which to earn it? The Wilson bill has destroyed confidence in the business world, has resulted in the suspension of many industries, and has thereby created "hard times." A panacea for all these evils can be found in protective tariff laws of the same sort as the McKinley Bill.

JUDGING from the way Blackburn, Hardin, Vest and other prominent Democrats are talking, there is to be a new party unless they can rule the Democratic party. Sound money Democrats hoot at the idea, and declare such a proposition. But were not these gentlemen and others once the best of Democrats? Certainly so. All of which goes to show that the Democratic party all along has been built of rotten timber. No wonder, is it, that the old party is ramshacklely?

We have no voice in the selection of the Democratic nominee for President. Nevertheless and notwithstanding, we will use what influence we can for Hon. J. C. S. Blackburn. Our reason for supporting Mr. Blackburn is two fold. First, there is the matter of State pride. Mr. Blackburn is a Kentuckian. We are for him. Secondly, he is the weakest brother the Democrats could put up, and he would go down in history as the worst beater man who ever ran for President. We are for him because there is no possible chance of his election.

As has been predicted all along in these columns, J. G. Carlisle could not possibly carry his own State. Events have upheld us in our prediction. The State has gone into the free silver camp, body and breeches. Sound money men have claimed that as Kentucky acted, so would the National Convention act, as Kentucky has acted very badly—that is to say as she has gone for free silver—so will the National Convention at Chicago act badly, and declare for the free and unlimited coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1. It must be remembered that such men as Algebel, Tillman, Blackburn, Waite and Penneyer all stand for shorler, shilloner and repudiation, are leaders of the free silver element.

The Kentucky Distillers are seriously considering the question of closing down for eighteen months.

The great National Convention of the Republican party will meet at St. Louis next Tuesday, at which time the next President of the United States will be named. The platform will without doubt be for the gold standard, and with a divided Democracy the Republicans will march into the White House without a struggle.

The bicycle craze has subsided through rural districts. In the most of the districts the roads are too rough for satisfactory wheeling. Hence the purchase of a wheel is an extravagant expenditure of money. That this fact is being realized, is right. The American people are entirely to extravagant, and their disposition to hite at every lad, accounts in some measure for hard times. The Democratic party is responsible for all the rest.

"BAR," who writes for the Courier-Journal weekly, has made a vigorous attack on the shirt waist now universally worn by the women. Whilst "Bar" writes entertainingly and instructively at times, at other times she fills a column or two with the merest twaddle. This attack she has made on the shirt waist—than which there is not a neater, jauntier, or more comfortable garment—is as weak a production as ever came from her ready pen. Bar is oftentimes erratic.

WHILE it is to the interest of Black-burnism that the Democratic party fly into hinders, yet it is enough to bring the blush of shame to the cheek of every Republican, when they see such men as Carlisle, Lindsay, Buckner and Watterson condemned by Kentuckians, and such men as Blackburn, Bronston and Jack Chinn, held up as bright and shining lights; as eminent statesmen and the men in whose hands the destiny of the nation should be placed. It is enough, we say, to make even a Republican blush for shame.

HON. JOHN W. LEWIS. Republicans should remember that they have already nominated a candidate for Congress in the Fourth Congressional District.

Recognizing the valiant and victorious fight of Hon. John W. Lewis, against the enemy in 1894, and his most excellent record in Congress, the convention at Hodgenville re-nominated him by acclamation.

It can be said of Mr. Lewis that he has made a most able representative, devoting his undivided time and talent to the interest of his constituents. A whilst other gentlemen—Kentucky gentlemen—in Congress, have galloped over the country and state, attending to their political fence, and keeping or trying to keep same in repairs. Mr. Lewis has remained constantly at his post. But it is not necessary for us to arise and speak of the worth and merit of our distinguished Representative. Figures speak loudly for him, showing conclusively that his labors have resulted in good of a most substantial sort, to his district.

He has obtained a good appropriation for the improvement of Rough River. Still more he has obtained an appropriation for a public building at Lebanon.

The appropriations will result in untold benefits—that for the improvement of Rough River especially—to the people of the Fourth District. A Democratic President has seen fit to veto the bill in which the appropriations are included, but Mr. Lewis is entitled to the same credit. Mr. Lewis is not responsible for the act of Mr. Cleveland nor the U. S. Senate.

His work is confined to the House, and there we find he has worked for and in the interest of his constituents as no other Representative from this district has ever done. In view of his valuable service, it is the duty of the people to endorse him by re-election. There can be no doubt that he will receive many Democratic votes next fall. His election depends entirely on the action of his own party. If the Republican party begins at once and creates a good live organization throughout the district, which it will do, then there can be no doubt of the result.

Mr. Lewis will again be returned to the place he has filled with so much credit to himself. But let there be no rest from the labor upon the part of Republicans. The victory is always to the brave and industrious. A coward never wins, and a lazy man can be caught napping. Therefore, let every Republican feel that he is personally and directly interested in Mr. Lewis' triumph in November. With enthusiasm among us, and the good principals of the Republican party to uphold us, we can again carry Mr. Lewis to victory over the head of all opposition.

LIBERTY.

After having so much rain the ground is getting dry enough for cultivation and the farmers are busy cultivating their crops. Miss Mattie Taylor who has been in Beaver Dam for the past two months attending school, has returned to her home. We suppose she will help us with our Sunday School. We gladly welcome Mattie back to our midst. Messrs. Tim Austin and Ellis Smith visited friends near Hartford last Sunday.

Misses Alice Robinson and Bettie

Taylor were the guest of Misses Oia and Susie Williams last Sunday. Mr. James Austin and wife visited friends in Horton last Sunday.

Mrs. Octavia Taylor is improving slowly. Mr. J. D. Smith made a flying trip to Horton last Sunday.

Mr. Everett Maunz went to Morgantown last Monday returned home Wednesday.

Mr. Alva Taylor who has been in Hartford for the past while, has returned to his home.

Miss Lillie Austin is on the sick list.

Quite a number of people from this place attended the Jubilee at Beaver Dam last Saturday.

Cherry pie is all the go out here.

DORA DEAN.

A word to the wise is sufficient, or ought to be, at least. The world is that Kitzelman Bros., Ridgeville, Ind., are enabling the farmers of this country to make the best fence on earth at the actual cost of the wire. Isn't it worth an investigation? Your name and address on postal will bring full particulars. See their advertisement.

The Jubilee.

Last Saturday was the great Farmer's Jubilee at Beaver Dam. Extensive preparations had been made for the occasion and all who were there were royally entertained. Early in the morning the people began to come in from every direction, and by noon there were thousands in attendance. Mr. Monroe delivered the welcome address; prayer by Rev. Wilson. Prof. Ray, Mr. H. P. Taylor and others entertained the vast assemblage with appropriate speeches. At night the entertainment was largely attended and was a decided success.

The following note from the Drum Major of the Seventeenth Infantry was written by him while sitting at my side during the morning session of the G. A. R. Encampment at Somerset, May 20, 1896.

Inf., Drum Major of said regiment was wounded on the battle field of Shiloh, April 6, 1862, sends greetings to his old comrades and would be pleased to join in a re-union of Co. A. and the 17th Ky. Inf. My residence is at Lebanon, Ky. JOHN BARR. Barr had the point of his hip carried away by the second cannon shot, hurled at the Seventeenth Infantry on Sunday morning, April 6, 1862.

After a Hard Week.

One night last week a stranger went to the premises of Mr. A. D. Stuart, near Beda, Ohio county, and stole Mr. Stuart's saddle and best farm horse. He came to this county, in the Red Hill neighborhood, and traded the horse to a colored man named Wm. Norris for another horse and $5 in cash. Mr. Stuart and a Mr. Paris trailed the horse to Norris' and recovered it. They are still endeavoring to catch the thief so as to recover Mr. Stuart's saddle and Norris' horse.

The fellow is described as of medium height, dark complexion, black hair, small, black mustache, about 35 years of age, and wore a miner's cap. When last seen was in this county, near Red Hill, and he was making his way toward this city.

He went to Stuart's on the afternoon before taking the horse and frightened Mrs. Stuart very much by questioning her as to whether she were alone or not, and if there were any men about the premises. [Owensboro Tribune.]

REDA.

Dr. D. P. Cook who has been visiting his parents at this place left for St. Louis last week.

Rev. W. E. Cook returned from Daviess county Monday.

Mrs. Eliza Bennett is ill at this writing.

Dr. R. L. Ford went to Centertown Tuesday.

Master Joe Godshaw, Owensboro, is visiting his father at this place.

Miss Lucy Woodward of near this place has crystallized. After a careful canvass of the north side I have concluded that this section of the county is unanimous for I. A. Park for County Judge. This side of the creek must be given a place on the ticket and I. A. Park is nominated. He will pull a dozen Democratic votes in this precinct. Rec.

Robt. Stewart Dead.

Last Sunday evening at his home near Beaver Dam, Mr. Robt. Stewart was kicked by a mule, while he was watering his stock. He only lived about 24 hours after the accident. He was one of the best citizens of the county and will be greatly missed in his community. The remains were interred in the Burnett's Creek Church Cemetery Tuesday in the presence of a large number of sorrowing friends and relatives.

OUR SCHOOL.

A Few Suggestions in Regard to Same.

CITIZENS SHOULD ACT AT ONCE.

Our people are awakening to the fact that something must be done to maintain the reputation of our town as an educational center. As the matter stands, we are now threatened with only a plain five months common school and 'tis questionable whether our College building can be used to teach it in. Many citizens say it can't and claim that a common school building will have to be erected. If this must be done why not erect two buildings and divide the district, as there are two many pupils for one school and it would be more convenient for the pupils to have two houses in different parts of the town.

The foregoing are murmurings and utterances we hear on the streets every day and 'tis true we are in rather a dilemma, but our people are not going to lie still and consent to have only a plain five months common school, but will find a way to keep up our reputation. To accomplish this, many of our citizens think that we should accept the provision of the Graded Common School Law, vote a tax of not more than 50c on each $100.00 worth of taxable property and a capitation tax not to exceed $1.50 for purpose of maintaining said school and extending the term to ten months. Many of our citizens say 25c on each 100 and $1.50 capitation tax will be sufficient, but as buildings and furniture must always be kept in repair many say the amount ought to be 37 1/2c ad valorem and $1.50 capitation tax. The latter named amount would no doubt be sufficient to keep up all repairs and with our common school fund easily maintain a graded school for ten months in each year.

Under the law we can vote this tax for three years and then if we don't like it we can make a change. Again, if we accept the provisions of the law we will elect six trustees and said trustees may PRESCRIBE THE CURRICULUM (other than those required by law to be taught in the common schools) WHICH MAY BE TAUGHT IN SAID GRADED SCHOOL. This being a fact they may name a course of study that will again give us a College course and place us again in the foremost ranks as an educational town.

We citizens must get together and do something and that quickly so as to be ready for our fall term. Who will take the lead? Will our present trustees not formulate some plan or at least call our people together, give an account of their stewardship, report on financial condition of our school and the prospects for the future, &c., &c. Let us wake up and take some action in the matter and not let time for opening school slip in on us without anything having been done.

The writer does not mean to dictate what tax shall or shall not be voted, but noticing the uneasiness or unrestfulness of our citizens concerning the matter and knowing that all would be pleased to know what we are to have in the future in the school line, he offers this to all interested for what it may be worth.

With the blood full of humors, the heated term is all the more oppressive. Give the system a thorough cleansing with Ayer's Sarsaparilla and a dose or two of Ayer's Pills, and you will enjoy Summer as never before in your life. Just try this for once, and you'll not regret it.

Mrs. Jamea Mosley died last Thursday night and was buried Friday.

Mrs. Dozier Evans is very low at this writing.

Mrs. Katie Llewellyn is also on the sick list.

Last Saturday the hottest election ever held at this school district for trustee took place as a result of Attorney B. L. Kelly slipping in and trying to have his trustees elected. Coming in as he did just on the eve of the election and soliciting and getting votes somehow after knowing the school had been under promise by the patrons for two months. This may be good righteous action for a lawyer, but we hardly think proper in a teacher. We are glad to say that the good people of the district turned him down.

Messrs. John Moorman and Frank Fielden went to Hartford Wednesday and were qualified as trustees.

SCHEME TO LOWER WAGES.

The following is the suggestive heading of an article in the Sun of Lexington, Ky:

TO LOWER WAGES.

Scheme to Reduce the Pay of Laborers Without Strikes and Lockouts. DEMONSTRATE THE MERRY WITH WHICH THEY ARE PAID AND THE HEAVY IS OBTAINED.

The People Who Buy Things.

There is one class of people in the United States which is specially interested in the agitation for free silver, with its openly avowed purpose of raising prices twice as high as they are now. This is the consuming class, composed of all the people who buy things. To them the most important question in regard to the currency is: "Will our money buy few or many things? We now have an industrial and commercial system in which goods are sold and products bought and sold with a currency which rests on a gold standard and has a high purchasing power. If we were to adopt the silver standard, our money would buy only half the quantity of goods that it does now. How would this help us, the 70,000,000 American consumers?"

Free-coinage politicians who are trying to gain votes by setting one class of citizens against another would do well to remember that the largest class in this country is that of the people who buy things. When they catch about those people that it is to their interest to pay higher prices for what they consume, they may have some show of success. Until then their scheme is doomed to failure.

The free and unlimited coinage of silver is the greatest political swindle of the century, for it gives to the wealthy the power to double their wealth and leaves to the poor man nothing but silver dollars really worth only 50 cents each. [Bucyrus Journal.]

Largely a Question of Freight.

The principal reason why the highly civilized and commercial nations have gradually abandoned silver and adopted the gold standard is that value for value silver is 30 times as heavy as gold. So that if the cheaper metal were used to settle balances in trading between two countries or between distant points of the same country it would cost 30 times more to transfer it than if payment was made in gold. The foolish idea that business men have conspired to discredit the white metal in order to increase the value of gold is utterly a cheap money delusion. Merchants and bankers are interested in having the best possible medium for use in measuring values and making exchanges, and the fact that in millions of transactions the handling of money the greater weight of silver meant a larger cost of transporting it was of itself a sufficient reason why gold should be preferred.

Left to themselves, men always choose the easiest-known method of doing anything. Since it is far easier to use a substance having great value in small bulk than one 30 or 40 times heavier, it is only natural that, whenever it is possible to secure sufficient gold, that metal should be used instead of silver. Wood is now generally used instead of steel for bicycle rims because it is lighter. Steelies who should claim that the wood constructors had demonstrated steel rims would be laughed at. Yet their arguments would be just as sound as those of the silverites.

California Must Remain a Gold State.

California was a gold state when it was admitted and has remained a gold state since. None of its debtors has anything to gain by a radical change of standard, not even the banks, which, under a silver standard, would be able to pay all depositors 50 cents on the dollar. The derangement of business and temporary destruction of credit that would result from such a change would probably break most of the banks in California, including perfectly solvent institutions. [Los Angeles Herald.]

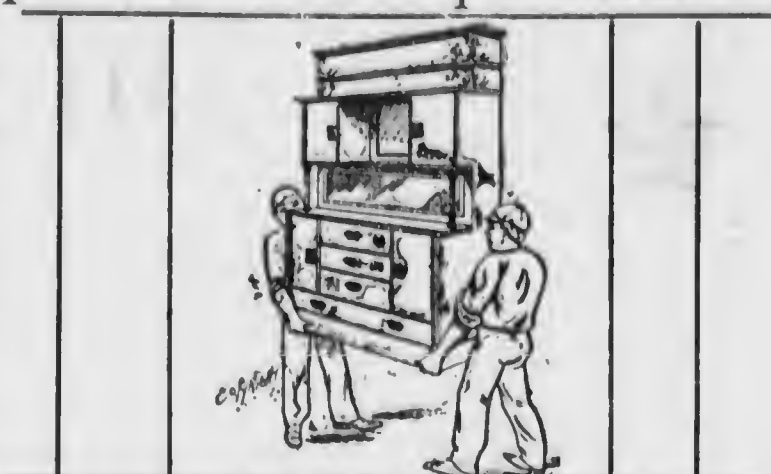

Must Consider the German Vote.

It may be in this crisis that the Germans will play a specially important role. In the east they are altogether sound upon the silver question, and in the west the preponderance of German sentiment is sound. If the convention perceive that they will have to reckon with the German vote the influence of that vote will not be lost. [New York State-Zeitung.]

Willing to Correct Mistakes.

About the only argument the free silver papers offer in advocating the issuance of fiat money is that Secretary Carlisle and the Courier-Journal have charged that the new law on money question. To their credit, be it said, the Courier-Journal and Secretary Carlisle argue the question. [Lexington (Ky.) Sun.]

We would be glad for our friends who are taking the paper to speak to their neighbors about the matter and send in their subscription. Every Republican in the county should be taking the paper.

Mr. W. H. Candiff, of Livermore, paid the REPUBLICAN a visit on Tuesday. He is an agent for the Owensboro "Watchman" and the Cincinnati Enquirer. He says that crop prospects in his county are not flattering. Corn and tobacco on Green River are badly drowned by the heavy rains. Corn is sickly and yellow, and tobacco is scalded. Besides, all the crops are fowl with grass and weeds.

Life Insurance is a great thing. It protects your family after you have left this world of sin and sorrow, and goes to join the realm and sing anthems in the world above. Mr. Robt. I. Stewart, of Beaver Dam, who died Tuesday carried a life policy in the United States Life Insurance Co., which had only been in force since August 17, 1895. Mr. S. R. Dent, the gentlemanly and accommodating District Manager of the above mentioned Company, is now at Beaver Dam to fix up the claim and his beneficiaries will receive a check in a few days for the full amount of the policy. Mr. Dent has written more insurance in Ohio county perhaps than any other agent. He is always kind, obliging, courteous and it is really a pleasure to do business with him. Mr. Dent's success is greatly due to the methods of his Company, who pay as soon as a claim has been properly proven, no delay, no fooling away time about them, but prompt in all transactions.

Ablaze With Erysipelas

There is no disease of the blood which so completely puzzles the doctors as Erysipelas. They admit that it is a blood trouble, but like other such diseases, they are unable to effect a cure.

It is not surprising that those who are afflicted with this distressing disease should suffer from untold agonies. Like a consuming flame, it covers the skin with a fiery, burning redness which is almost unbearable, and only those who have been so afflicted can describe its tortures.

Aside from the suffering which Erysipelas causes, there is always great danger attending the disease, unless promptly checked. The inflammation spreads through the tissues of the skin and, when a vital part is attacked, the result is disastrous. Often the bones are affected, and become so diseased that they crumble away, leaving the patient an invalid for life.

Here is a case, where the doctors were unable to afford relief, and strongly urged an operation.

Mrs. Ada Wainwright is a most estimable young lady, residing at Alamo, Tenn. After being married, she was constantly for three years and declared incurable, she was before her only the gloomy life of an invalid. Under date of May 8th, 1896, she writes: "I feel it my duty to inform you of the great good I have received from your remedy, S. S. S., for I am sure that it saved my life. For three years

MRS. ADA WAINWRIGHT.

I have suffered agonies with bone erysipelas, and though under treatment of the best physicians, I found no relief. One of my limbs was so swollen and inflamed that the doctors found it necessary to keep it lanced, and the bone became so diseased that several pieces were discharged through the opening. It is impossible to describe the suffering I had to endure; sometimes able to hop around on crutches, and again unable to turn myself in bed. I was so reduced in health that I weighed only eighty pounds.

"After lingering for three years, having been treated by four doctors, I was finally told that I was incurable, and that I would have to submit to the painful operation of having the bone scraped, or it would be necessary to amputate the limb. This I positively refused to submit to.

"A friend recommended S. S. S., knowing of its wonderful reputation as a blood remedy, and when I had finished one bottle I felt a marked improvement. I grew better as I continued the medicine, and after taking six bottles I was entirely well, my skin was clear and pure, and I felt like a new man. I gained in health and strength until I now weigh 130 pounds, and all my relatives and friends are astonished at the wonderful cure made by S. S. S."

The above is but one of the many wonderful cures being made daily by S. S. S. Experience has shown that the doctors are absolutely unable to cure diseases of the blood, and of the many blood remedies offered to the public to-day, S. S. S. is the only one which cures obstinate and deep-seated cases.

For real blood troubles, S. S. S. has no equal. It wipes out completely the most obstinate cases of blood diseases, which other remedies do not seem to touch. S. S. S. gets at the root of the disease, and forces it out permanently. S. S. S. is guaranteed.

GOD KNOWS IT ALL.

God knows it all, our pain and tears, That through the joys of life are down, What though we seem to be alone, And hear it silent through the years? God knows it all, our pain and tears, God knows it all, our little cares, The burdens that we bear, the way Of rough and hard, the times we pray So weary, for a brighter day, God knows it all, our pain and tears, God knows it all, our broken hearts, That lost the things that loved, and cried In bitterness, the hopes that died When surely born, the breast that ached For comfort and for love's sweet part, God knows it all, our broken hearts, God knows it all, our love and rest, How near not in thy blindness we, How near thy love and rest we be, Wait patiently and do thy best, God knows it all, our love and rest, God knows it all, our love and rest, —Joy A. Jackson, in Chicago Standard.

AGAINST ODDS.

A Gallant and Victorious Dash at the Apaches.

He had come out of Fort Wallace, bound for Camp Supply, with a train of 30 wagons. There were only 60 troopers to escort the train—60 troopers and the country full of war parties raiding back and forth and dashed with their victories over the stage stations and isolated settlements. At high noon, as we halted for half an hour's rest and to close up the train, fully 400 Indians were in sight from every wagon. Horses were unsaddled, rubbed down and given a bite to eat before the saddles served out, firearms overhauled, and the pale-faced teamsters warned that they must fight or be wiped out.

We were ready half an hour after 12 o'clock. We must give the Apaches a lesson in manners. We had been waiting until the train should reach a favorable location. The moment had come. On this ground the teamsters could take care of it with ten troopers to guide and direct, and that left 20 of us to act. The word was quietly passed down the line, each man prepared himself, and at a note from the bugle a wonderful change took place. Our captain wheeled to the rear, our single lieutenant wheeled to the left with ten men; a sergeant charged straight ahead with ten more. I took nine others and wheeled to the right and rode straight at a body of 80 Indians bunched on a knoll just out of rifle-shot.

"Right wheel—steady now—forward, trot, gallop—charge!"

Ten to eighty! Eight to one! Odds enough to prove our metal and make it exciting. Every trooper in every squadron was cheering as he rode. His carbine was strapped to his back and his saber was held aloft in his right hand.

"Rush 'em, boys—drive right into 'em—make a hole in the bunch!"

Our plan had been executed so swiftly that the reds were dumfounded. Only three or four shots were fired at us as we charged, and the whole band sat there gazing at us as we thundered up. We struck them with awful crash—ten of us in single rank, and as our sabers began to flash the Indians thought only of getting out of reach. We had them flying in two minutes, and the order was, in case they took to flight, to keep together and run them for a couple of miles, using our carbines on their backs.

I had a light horse, not much larger than an Indian pony. He struck and knocked over two other ponies, and as I cut a warrior down with my saber my horse pitched ground. I was stunned, but remember that two or three horses stepped on me as the Indians drew out and took to flight. When I struggled to a sitting position it was to find myself almost helpless. My right shoulder was broken, my back severely injured and my legs felt numb. I was in a hollow, from which I could not see the wagons, but could hear the lightning going on in all directions.

To the right of me was a dead warrior; to the left a second; further to the left a dead pony; to the right of me and 20 feet away was a redskin, kicking and struggling. I had just gotten a rest on my left elbow when he sat up. The right side of his head was all bloody from a saber cut which had shaved off an ear, but this would have been a trifle to him. He must have been dismounted as I was, and had also been trodden upon. His right arm hung limp and his back was broken. He fell back as he tried to sit up, and rolling over half way, his eyes looked straight into mine.

Talk of the fury in the eyes of a tiger brought to bay, of a lion crippled and waiting to strike a dying blow, of the fibres of hell burning in the eyes of a manifiest attacked with hydrophobia and impatient to destroy! The face of that Indian was the face of a demon fresh from the confines of Hades. The hate in his eyes made the blood chill. The desire for vengeance burned out like a blaze on a hilltop at midnight.

I felt for my revolver with my left hand. It was in the holster of my saddle. My carbine was in my back, but I could not get it, injured as I was, and the slightest movement gave me the most excruciating pain. Was he armed? Yes! I saw his left hand go down and seize the handle of his tomahawk, and as he raised it he tried to utter a shout of vengeance. He could not sit up and his right arm was helpless, but, shutting his teeth tightly together, to force back the pain, he waved the tomahawk three or four times to get an impetus, and then flung it at me. It passed over me and sunk into the tree.

Had he any other weapon? He lay back, throw, and his eyes glared into mine, while the blood oozed from his wound and ran down his throat and neck.

Hadst Venegance! Fury! Hope! Despair! I read each feeling as it passed through his heart—read it from the eyes which burned and glinted and blazed until I grew faint at their malignity.

Then he moved his arm again and brought up a knife—a long, thin knife, which the lightest blow would drive to a man's heart. It flashed and glinted in the sun, and my flesh crept as the red devil, wounded unto death and almost helpless, reached out, laid the knife on the ground, and then sought to clutch the soil and drag his body toward me. An inch—two inches—three—five—ten—a foot. If he can have time he will pull himself across that space to within striking distance, and drive that knife into me!

He reaches out again—he groans in pain—his fingers dig up the dirt—his eyes look blood-red as he calls up his thirst for vengeance to help his muscles perform their work. Another inch—six inches—another foot! I feel the ground around me again as far as I can. No weapon—nothing to stop his advances!

Once more he reaches out and deposits the knife—the black fingers sink into the soil and find a hole—the powerful muscles of a single arm pull his crippled body along inch by inch—inch by inch! There's a brighter blaze in his eyes—additional fury creeps into that steady glare. He has been wounded unto death, but he can kill me he will die without a regret—aye, with a shout of exultation on his lips.

Inch by inch—coming, coming—nearer, nearer! Two feet more and he can reach me and stab and thrust with that knife. But, suddenly I notice that the firing has ceased. I hear the hoofs of galloping horses, and now a half-dozen troopers ride up, and one of them calls out: "Bless my stars, but here's our sergeant! Hello, old boy, catch a bullet! Down boys, and back after him, and I'll just put an ounce ball into the head of this red devil who's been picking his teeth with his hunting-knife. Stand clear a minute, boys! One, two, three—gone to luncheon, to fool no more with wagon trains!"—Detroit Free Press.

The Earth's Possible Moons.

The opinion is attributed to some astronomers that it is possible for the earth, under certain circumstances, to capture as satellites some of the roving meteoric bodies known to be so numerous in space instead of bringing them to the surface as aerolites, and that, as these bodies are too small to be seen—masses of 100 tons being invisible at 800 or 1,000 miles, when brightly lighted—the earth may be attended by hundreds of invisible moons. Sir J. Herschel is cited as even of the opinion that there may be large enough to be visible for brief intervals when beyond the earth's shadow, and Sir John Lubbock has actually supplied formulae for calculating the distances from observations of this kind. M. Felt, also, director of the observatory at Toulouse, is quoted as having been led by these calculations and calculations to conclude that the earth is attended by at least one meteoric stone of considerable size—one about 26 times nearer than the moon—its orbit being 3,000 miles from the earth's surface, the tiny moon revolving round the earth in three hours and 20 minutes.—N. A Tongue-Twister.

Try it yourself, very slowly and carefully, until you can say it easily. Then pass it along to your friends. Here it is:

"She stood at the gate, welcoming him in."

Try to say a person trying to pronounce the sentence for the first time will find it laughably. These tongue-twisting sentences, however, are good, elementary exercises. They give you control of your vocal organs, so that you can enunciate properly, just as finger exercises on the piano or organ give control of the fingers.

What an immense amount of mechanical practice does it require to establish anything like a close sympathy between the brain and the physical organs!—Philadelphia Record.

All the Same to Him.
